

The Impact of Trauma on the Care-giving Experience

October 2018

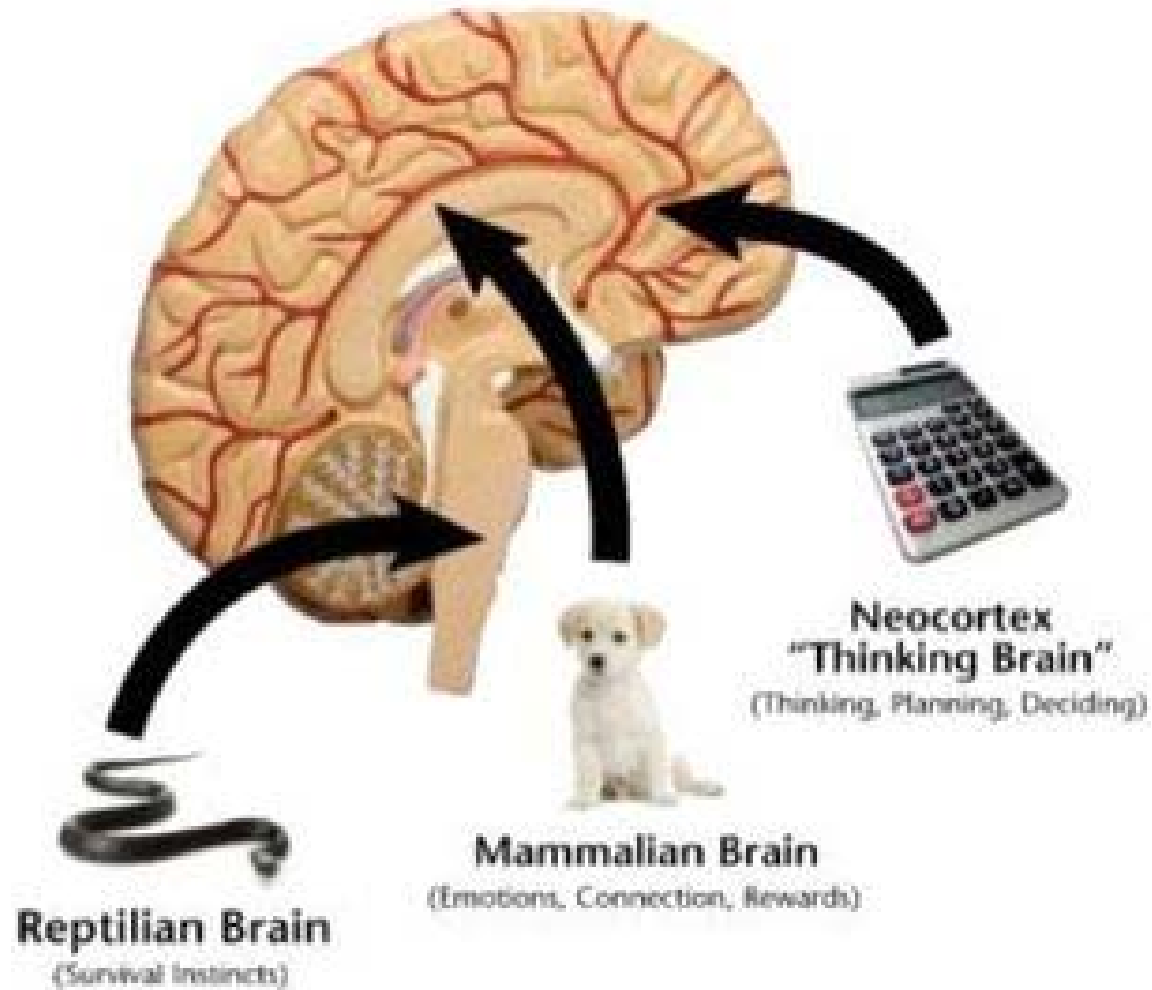

CONFIDENTIAL – MERAKEY – NOT FOR REPRODUCTION

Defining Trauma

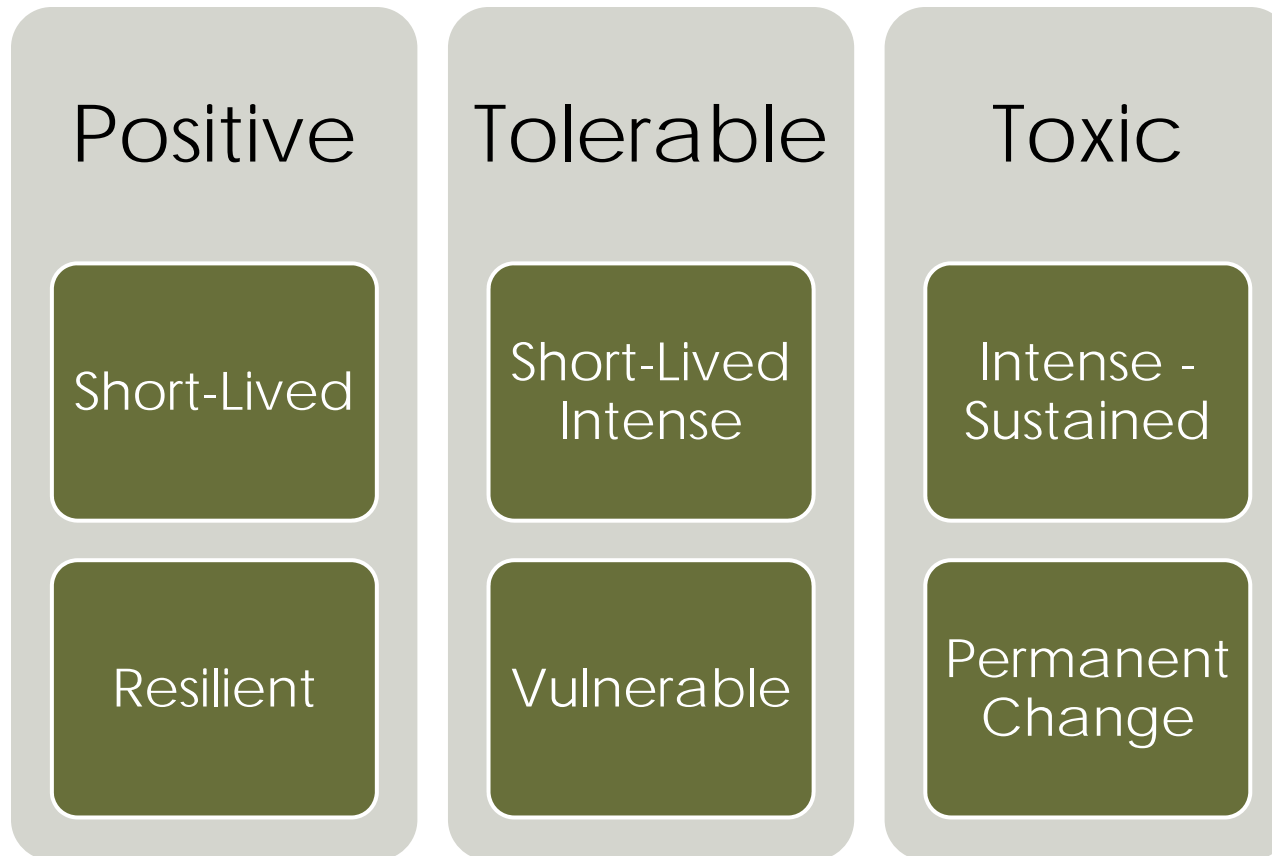

Basic Brain Functioning

The Three Brains

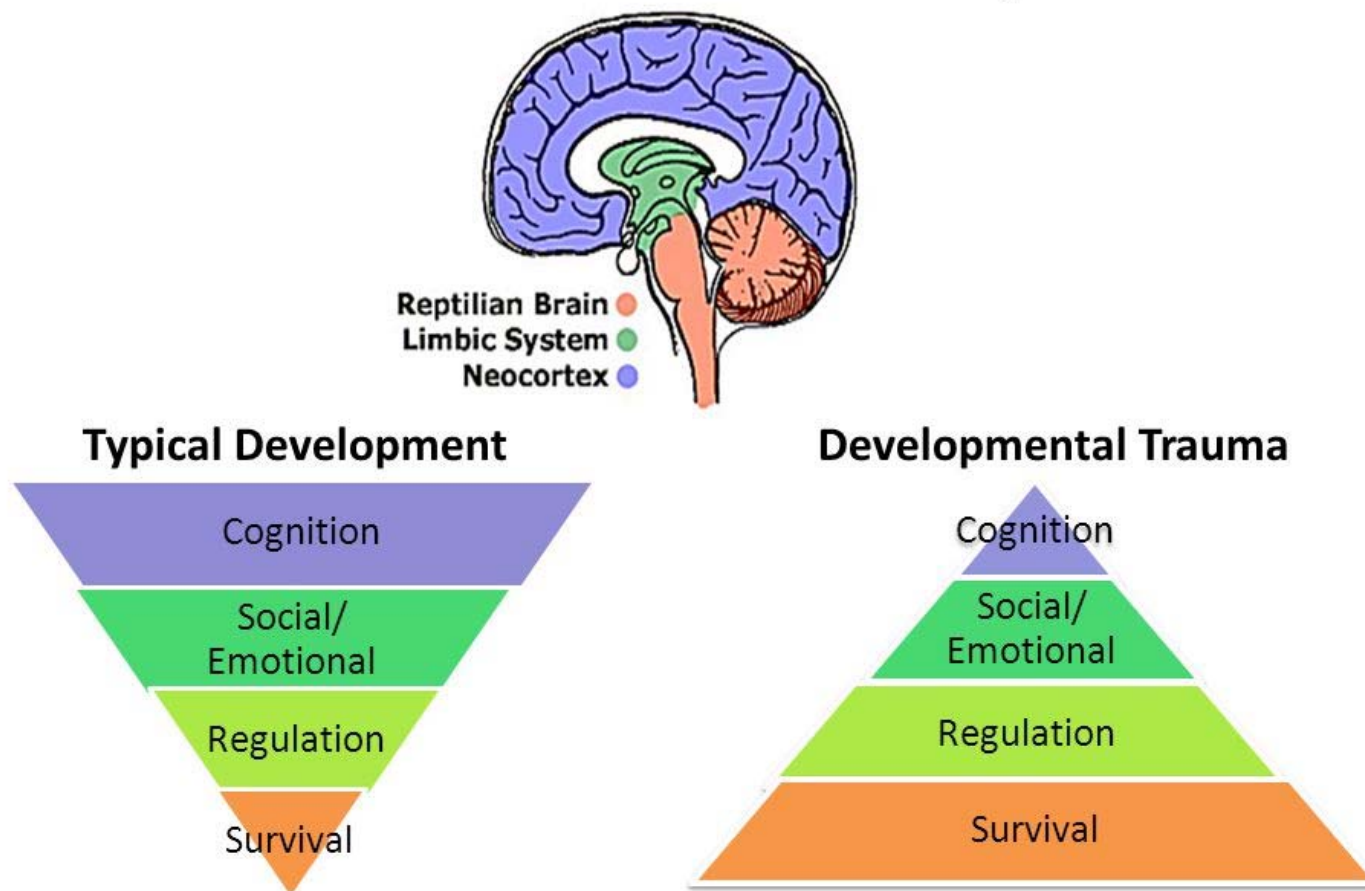

Traumatic Stress

Middlebrooks, JS, Audage, NC (2008) & Perry, B (2005)

Trauma & Brain Development

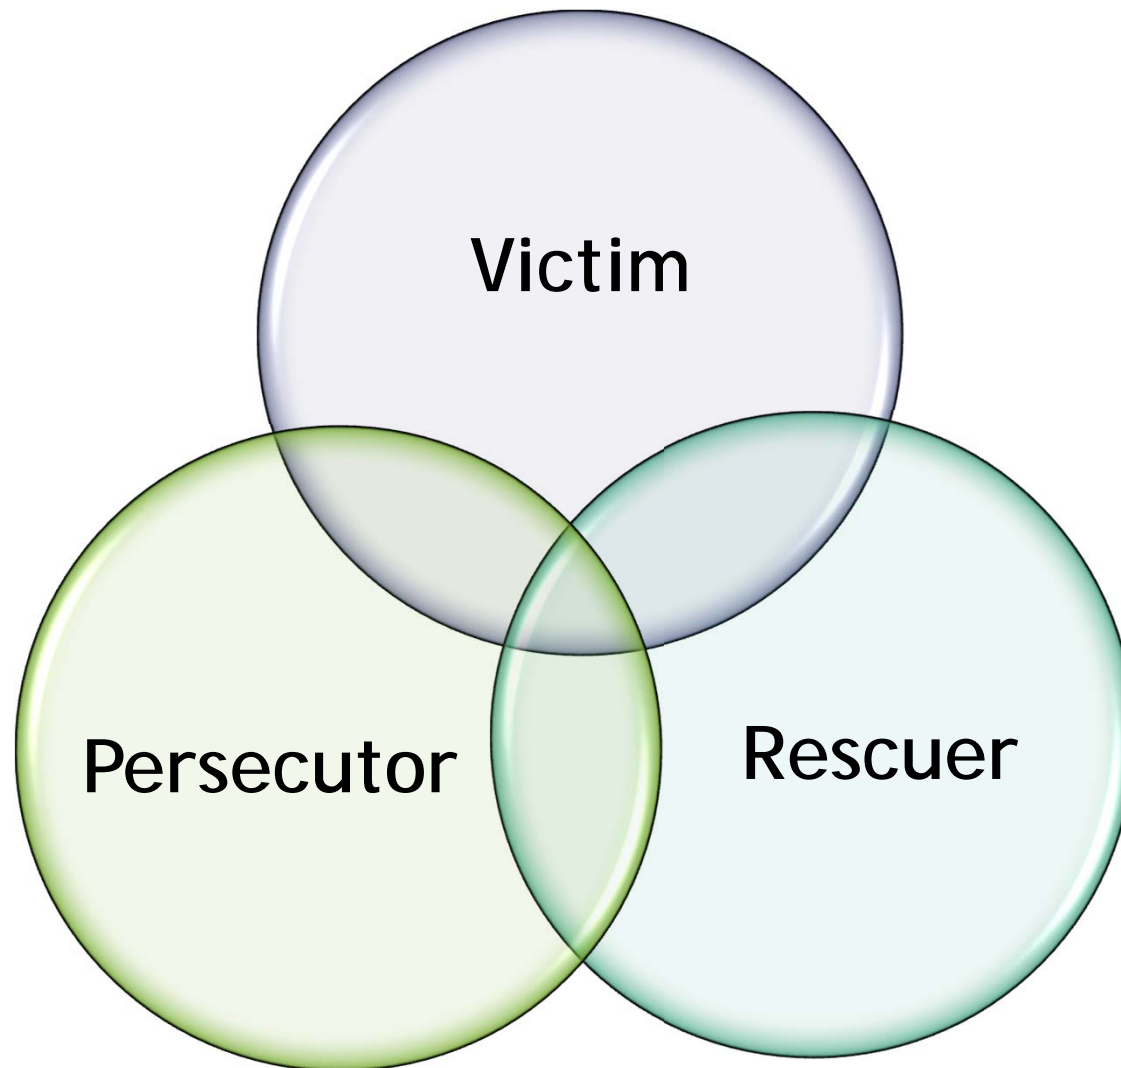

Adapted from Holt & Jordan, Ohio Dept. of Education

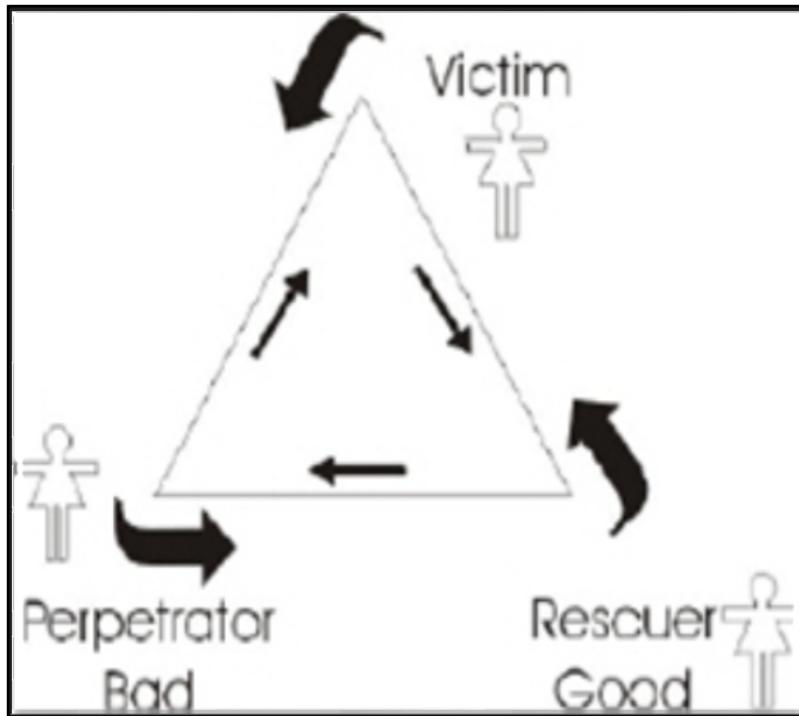

Emotional Impact

Traumatic Re-enactment

Consequences

Compassion Satisfaction

Burnout

Vicarious Trauma

Hurt People
Hurt People

Slide 9

GL3

Where is the video coming from? if the video is a link it can be embedded in the slide.

Green, Leah, 10/11/2018

Who is Playing Which Role?

Re-scripting Re-enactments

Prevention

Intervention

Restoration

Closing

Everyone has been a participant in a re-enactment triangle.

Each time we engage in this dynamic it becomes even more hard-wired in our brain chemistry.

It takes an entire community working together to re-script but individuals can make a great impact by committing to do their part to avoid and get out of the re-enactment triangle.

Contacts

Colleen Rieger, LSW

crieger@merakey.org

610-866-8331 x 205

Christine Hunsberger, M.Ed., LPC

chunsber@merakey.org

610-866-8331 x. 270